Admiral Groverman to Talk To Area's Reserve Officers

More than 400 Reserve Officers from the San Pedro-Long Beach-Orange County area will assemble Thursday evening, Sept. 12, at 7:30 at the Long Beach State College auditorium to hear an address by Rear Admiral William H. Groverman, commander of Cruiser-Destroyer Flotilla Three.

The affair will be the kick-off meeting of the new school year for the Naval Reserve Officer School 11-4, which maintains central offices at Long Beach State College and satellite units at the Santa Ana Naval Reserve Training Center, the Naval Air Station at Los Alamitos, and the San Pedro Naval Reserve Training Center.

Following the address by Admiral Groverman, Reserve Officers in attendance will have an opportunity to enroll in one of the 23 classes to be offered this year by NROS 11-4.

Classes range from "Nuclear Power" and "Space Technology" to "Atomic, Biological, and Chemical Warfare" and "Guided Missiles" and are designed to keep Reserve Officers combat ready. A new course released by the Navy Bureau of Personnel entitled "National Strategy in the Cold War" will be taught for the first time at the Long Beach State College and at each of the satellite schools.

All courses provide retirement and promotion points. Although the school is planned primarily for Navy, Marine and Coast Guard officers, there are a substantial number of Air Force and Army officers who sign up each year for the instruction.
